Map - Foildarragh and the Cummers

The name of Bridget Cary's father was found in the record of her marriage at Kilcommon Church. It was John Cary and he was living in Cummer. There are four Cummers to choose from as shown in the table above and the two southern ones are shown in the map above. The other two are north of the village of Kilcommon (red rectangle) by the same distance that the two Cummers on the map are south of the same village. The baptism record for Bridget Cary shown above is thought to be Bridget who married Thomas Hayes in 1902. The age is about right, her father was John Cary and the residence (Foildarragh) is close to all four Cummers.
